All natural soundmakers and instruments are multisensory in nature:

- a large shimmering cymbal that buzzes under my fingers when you hit it
- musical gourds from Africa and India that rest on my lap as you twist them back and forth
- a didgeridoo that vibrates across my tummy
- a drum on a resonance board that I can feel through my body
- autumn leaves with their earthy smell being scrunched on the ground
- pebbles thrown into a bowl of water splashing onto my hands
